Lemhannas RI Supports Nutritious Food Policy Through Food Self-Sufficiency

JAKARTA - The government announced a priority program to achieve food self-sufficiency and transform Indonesia to become the world's food barn following the 2nd Asta Cita to achieve food resilience. Concerning this program, Lemhannas RI organized a Focus Group Discussion (FGD) on "Food Resilience: Towards Food Self-Sufficiency and World Food Barn" on Tuesday (3/12) at Kresna Room, Astagatra Building, Lemhannas RI.

During the opening, Vice Governor of Lemhannas RI, Lieut. Gen. Eko Margiyono, stated that food and energy resilience have become strategic issues to realize the nation's self-reliance. "The increasing needs due to population growth bring complex challenges to secure access to sufficient, safe, and nutritious food," he said.

The issues are aggravated by the difficulties in preparing land, including access, ownership, and the suitability of land conditions to the program. The poor ratio of agricultural equipment compared to Indonesia's total area also complicates the efficient land management process. To resolve these challenges, Lemhannas RI is committed to providing holistic and applicable policy recommendations to the president.

Attending the event as speakers were Director of PT Datu Nusra Agrobisnis (DNA), Dean Novel; Special Staff of KASAD, Brigadier General Wirana Prasetya Budi, SE; President Director of Bank DKI, Agus Haryoto Widodo; Operational Director of PT Multi Andalan Sejati Muhammad, Angga Rifandi Pane; President Director of PT Food Station Tjipinang Jaya, Karyawan Gunarso; and Agriculture Analyst, Khudori.

The diverse backgrounds of the speakers will hopefully enable them to generate cross-sectoral collaboration and formulate policy recommendations as a reference for decision-making in accelerating the realization of national food self-sufficiency and a resilient and sustainable world food barn.
